PRICE FIVE CENTS

Northeastern Downs State by 4-2 Score

Six-Game Winning Streak of Rhody Broken; Visiting Hurler Wins Own Game with Triple; Stevens and Draghetti Star

The six game winning streak of Rhode Island State was snapped last Saturday afternoon when the powerful bats of the Northeastern crew proved sufficient to solve Draghetti's benders to earn a well earned 4-2 victory. This avenges a defeat administered earlier in the season, Rhode Island secured a lead in the very first inning and commanded the affair until the seventh when "Lefty" Somerville, star southpaw of the visitors, sent the pill into left center to tally two runners with the tying and winning markers. Unsatisfied, the Bean-towners chased over another run in the eighth to sew up the proceedings.

State earned its first tally in the initial stanza when Hurwitz came home on Stevens' forced sacrifice. The lead was kept until the fourth when the Bostonians succeeded in tying the count. Hurwitz opened the sixth inning with a neat infield hit. Things looked bright at this time, but Somerville caught Hurwitz flat-footed, off first and then forced Dragetti to ground out to Goodwin. Stevens, however, received a great cheer with a long triple to left that was followed by MacKenzie's three-bagger to left center.

The "lucky seventh" proved the winning rally for the visitors. Stevens took care of Pender's easy roller, but Richardson came through with a single. Goodwin followed with a double. In an attempt to out-guess his foe, Dragetti served to Somerville a neat one that was driven to center to score the two. Meehan fanned and Mahoney was retired with little ease. Trying hard, Rhode Island was unable to tie the count.

Soph Outing Next Saturday

Picnic to Moonstone Beach; Games and Swimming to Make Up Program

The Sophomore class outing is listed for next Saturday afternoon when the upper classmen will trek to Moonstone Beach for an all afternoon picnic that is certain to prove a successful affair. As yet, nothing definite has been known concerning the number going or what the program will consist, but the students may remain firm to know that President Howard Reid's committee is working hard to leave no stone unturned to make the affair delightful.

The picnickers will leave Kingston at noon and remain at the resort until dark.

Tau Kappa Alpha Honors Initiates

Banquet Held at South Hall; Prof. Churchill Outlines Program for Next Year

Tau Kappa Alpha held its annual banquet last Thursday evening in South Hall, 'twas an affair which proved one of the greatest successes of the season. George H. Alexander was toastmaster of the ceremonies. Prof. Herman Churchill, the main speaker of the evening, spoke on the plans for the coming year and congratulated the team for its enviable record.

Connecticut has two debates with Rhode Island next winter. On another evening Maine will meet Kingston here, while Rhode Island's debaters will invade Durham in quest of New Hampshire's scalp. The subjects for debate are: "Resolved, That Censorship of Motion Pictures, Books and Magazines Should Be Abolished," and "Resolved, That the Present Foreign Policy of the United States Should Be Discontinued."

Others who spoke during the banquet were Henry M. Barney, president of Tau Kappa Alpha; T. Kenneth Wright, secretary-treasurer, and Miss Mildred E. Negus, a member of last year's team. The initiates to Tau Kappa Alpha were: Raymond Christopher, '27; Benjamin Fine, '28; Howard M. Miller, '29, and T. Kenneth Wright, '29.

McNabb: "Did you get excited when you fell through the ice?"

Haas: "No, I kept perfectly cool."

Seniors Prepare for Graduation And Commencement Program

Company C Wins Drill Honors

Cup Awarded to Victors; R. O. T. C. Unit Receives Flag from State; Awards for Senior Officers

In the competitive drill held last Thursday afternoon, Company C of the local R. O. T. C. won the cup, a trophy presented by the Class of '21. Russell Eckloff, captain of the winning unit, received the award from Dr. Edwards.

It was the final drill of the year. Seven officers of the Rhode Island and organized reserve force were present at the inspection. Following the exhibition drill of each of the four companies, the judges—Adj. Gen. Arthur C. Cole, of this state, Lieut. Col. John G. Murphy and Col. Herbert A. Wells, of the reserves, picked Company C to be the best unit in the battalion. The platoon leaders of the winning unit were Lieutenant Eldorus E. Martin and Lieutenant Earl Whitaker, Jr.

Awards during the course of the afternoon were plentiful. The presentation of the State flag by Col. Wells in behalf of the 322nd Coast Artillery was made to Company A, under Captain Harle Leigh and Lieutenants Robert Brightman and Olaf Harrington.

Dr. Edwards, in behalf of the battalion, presented to Major Henry V. Van

With Great Rejoicing Graduates Accept News of Commencement Ball; "Romeo and Juliet" to Be Presented; Varied Program

As is appropriate for the largest class ever to graduate from this college, the Commencement Week program this year will be more elaborate than ever. The week opens with the farewell banquet which will be attended by the members of the class only. This will be followed by the Phi Kappa Phi banquet on Friday night. All of the old members of the organization, as well as the new candidates, will be present.

Saturday will be Alumni Day, the most important event of which will probably be the Alumni Luncheon in East Hall at noon. During the afternoon there will be class reunions and the annual Alumni Meeting. All fraternities and sororities will have open house from 6 to 8 o'clock in the evening. At 8 o'clock the band will entertain with a concert. The Co-eds will present the Shakespearean play, "Romeo and Juliet" at 9 o'clock in the evening. This play is under the direction of Mrs. Roy Rawlings, who has professionally played in this tragedy. The leading roles in the production will be taken as follows:

Romeo, Miss Elizabeth Hearn
Juliet, Miss Margaret McCrae
Merutio, Miss Virginia Broome
Nurse, Miss Elizabeth Munster.

President Edwards will give the Baccalaureate address at Lippitt Hall on Sunday. In the evening of the

DeMolays Visit Newport Fleet

Local Chapter Enjoys Trip to City Now Harboring Uncle Sam's Fleet

In conjunction with the program conducted at Newport last Friday by the De Molays throughout the state, the local chapter participated in the many benefits that were at their command. In all fourteen smiling collegians gave the "once over" to the town that only last week was the center of the famous war between the Blues and the Whites. One of the features on the card was a pleasant program given by the Providence chapter band.

Those who made the trip to Newport were: Donald Bunce, George Davis, Minard Price, Clayton Jones, Kingsley Read, LeRoy Savage, Clarence Hoxie, Kenneth Wright, Hugh Orr, Erling Owren, Robert Marshall, Abe Goldstein, Raymond Bowers and Daniel Fitts.

The End

On all sides of us we are reminded that this college year is fast drawing to a close. We see signs on the bulletin boards asking for our enrollment deposit; likewise, the recently posted examination schedule tells us that school days are numbered. And now we must inform our readers that this is the last issue of the Beacon for this fiscal year. We want to take advantage of this opportunity to wish you all a very happy vacation; may you come back next September with the determination to continue the good work for Rhode Island State College. Also, in behalf of the Beacon Board, we wish to thank all the students and friends of this publication who have helped us in any way during the past year. We realize and cheerfully acknowledge that there is much room for improvement; and with the co-operation of the entire student body, this betterment will be effected. The editor, being no Horace Greeley, must receive the literary aid of all of you, if our high hopes and ideals regarding the future growth of the Beacon is to be realized. This summer while you are idly watching the waves, or energetically selling magazines, give an occasional thought of the near future, and make this mental resolution: "I, a loyal member of Rhode Island State College, faithfully promise to do my share towards making a Bigger and Better Beacon."

But some of us are departing now, never to return as students again. Four pleasant years these honored Seniors have been with us, giving their best for their Alma Mater. The world goes on; nothing is at rest. Our beloved classmates will step out, only to make room for a new group of knowledge-seekers. But there will be many a pang of sadness, many a sigh of regret, when September finds us resignedly waiting for friends we know will not return, buddies who have now entered upon life's mission.

Seniors, we wish you all the luck and happiness in the world. Yes, we will miss you. Your Alma Mater will miss you; but it was ever thus. Your work now lies beyond these college walls; your task here is finished. But remember that Rhody always welcomes you back; as alumni you will ever find friendship and hospitality awaiting you. Let us hear from you occasionally; keep in touch with your Alma Mater. In this way you will not only be helping Rhode Island State College, but you will keep alive the spirit of college days, the joy of true friendships. Rhode Island State is proud of every one of you, and is interested in your future. No matter where you may go, or what work you may enter, remember that you have left friends behind you, friends who are sincerely desirous of your success.

Class of 1927—Farewell!

The Open Forum

A Co-Ed Speaks

To the Editor of the Beacon,
Dear Sir:

I wonder if the inhabitants of East Hall would feel offended should a mere co-ed offer a suggestion?

I think we all would agree that East Hall is not the most attractive building on the campus. However, I doubt if anyone would say that its beauty is considered any greater by the addition of the motley array of men's wearing apparel which may be seen fluttering from the windows on a sunshiny day.

Men, do you realize you are in college? Then why not make your dormitory a place you are proud of? Next year when you come back make a resolution to bring some really appropriate draperies to decorate your windows.

—E. H.

Student Forum

To the Editor of the Beacon,
Dear Sir:

What's the matter with the Student Forum? Not long ago this new organization was added to our college life, and bidden fair to become a powerful influence on the campus. But for the past several months, not a sound has been heard from it. Starting off with a bang, the Forum enjoyed popularity for but a short time, and now it has seemingly dropped out of the limelight entirely.

I believe that we should not allow this new organization to suffer an untimely death. An open forum, run for and by the students, should prove of immense importance in ascertaining the student opinion of various college phases.

Let's see if we can't revive this sleeping society and give the students a chance to voice themselves.

—F. B., '28.

ACROSS THE CAMPUS

To the Editor of the Beacon,
Dear Sir:

Now that we are about to grow in size, if not as yet in numbers, it is only natural that our thoughts should turn to other changes for the betterment of the college and the students. We refer to the unreasonable rules which have governed the co-ed body during the past year. For instance, the 6:30 rule. For the benefit of our male readers who may not be acquainted with the rule, the Women's Student government has, as one of the laws, that all women students must be in their dormitory at 6:30 o'clock, unless the students is a Sophomore or a Junior, in which case the privilege of one or three nights a week out respectively until ten is allowed. Seniors having the privilege of being out every night, if they so desire, but with many restrictions. Take for example another state institution, the University of Maine. There the co-eds are not only allowed to be out until ten every night, but may be accompanied by gentlemen friends. Does our faculty consider the women of Rhode Island State of such inferior moral character that we cannot be allowed the freedom enjoyed by women of other state institutions?

We do not want it thought, nevertheless, that we are revolting against every rule. Such rules as "the ten o'clock" and "the fifteen minutes after college functions" are in no way disagreeable to us for we realize that they are sensible and beneficial to us.

It is only the unreasonable and unjust rules that incite us.

These rules would not be so irksome if they were not so frequently broken. In making this last statement we are giving away no secret, for the faculty as well as the students, have long known that this is an indisputable fact. It is not fair that those who have pious New England consciences and refrain from breaking these rules should see others doing what they would like to do, and getting away with it!

It is a well known fact that responsibilities tend to enlarge one's intellectual and mental powers. Such rules under which we are, now living give us the credit of having the intellect of a child of six, who has to be told when to come home and who has to have his daily living regulated. It is an insult to our more mature judgment to be treated in this manner. Our parents have sent us to college to gain, not only wisdom along academic lines, but also experience that will help us in after life. Two of the most valuable of these experiences are those of self-reliance and dependability upon one's own judgment. Can such things be learned when we are tied down by such limiting rules? Is it right that these rules should oppose the wishes of our parents who in a large measure are responsible for Rhode Island State College?

Princeton to Admit Co-Eds

The supremacy of the male at Princeton has at last been challenged, when, according to the terms of the will of the late Mrs. Hetty Green, the college will turn co-ed beginning 1929. Mrs. Green left $20,000,000 to Princeton on the condition it be used to permit the gentler sex to obtain an education there. The college authorities are at the present time making arrangements to house and feed its incoming female student body.

Strong protests from the alumni and the undergraduate body have been generally ignored by the authorities, who are quoted in the Princetonian as expressing the opinion that all will turn out for the best, and the step will enhance Princeton's prestige and educational utility.

Separate quadrangles will be constructed for the women, and separate commons and eating clubs will be provided. It is expected that the number of co-eds will be small at first, but that it will gradually increase.

Minneapolis, Minn.—(I. P.)—John Philip Sousa has consented to write a new marching song for the University of Minnesota, to take the place of the old "Rouser." The new march will be entitled, "Minnesota."

"... a bill (was) introduced into the Nebraska State Legislature (by) a former school teacher providing for courses in 'common honesty, morality, courtesy, obedience to law, respect for the flag, respect for parents and the home, and the dignity and necessity of honest labor' to be given in all the grade and high schools of the State."

Masonic Club Hold Successful Banquet

College Professors Present at Initiation; Ian Walker Elected President

Twenty-five members of the Rhode Island State College chapter of the De Molay were guests of the College Masonic Club at their annual meeting held in Agricultural Hall last Wednesday evening. Certificates of membership were presented and an election of officers was held.

Halfdan Anderson and Charles Cloudman were received into the organization. Those who joined the De Molay this past year and who received certificates of membership through President Donald R. Kinzie, were: Prof. Stanley Hetherington, Walter Green of the Experiment Station, Elvin Hendricks, Donald Dennis, Ian Walker, J. Edwin Olsson, Charles Cloudman and Halfdan Anderson.

Short speeches of interest especially to the De Molay boys were delivered by Dr. Harold Browning, Prof. Stanley Hetherington, Dr. Basil Gilbert, Walter Green, Prof. Crawford Hart and Prof. Waldo Adams.

The officers elected for next year were: President, Ian Walker; vice president, J. Edwin Olsson; secretary, Prof. Stanley Hetherington; treasurer, Dean George E. Adams; membership committee, Ian Walker and Halfdan Anderson; executive committee, Chef Stowell, Prof. John E. Ladd and J. Edwin Olsson.

A buffet luncheon, served by Chef Stowell, brought the good time to a close.

BAND PLAYS AT WAKEFIELD

The R. O. T. C. Band journeyed down to Wakefield Memorial Day and furnished the music for the Veterans' parade. The procession started at 10 o'clock in the morning and dedication exercises were performed at the various burial grounds. The College Band played well and was received with much applause by the onlookers.

The following members went on the Wakefield trip: Samuel Epstein, alto; Harold Bean, George Burnett, Herbert Chase, Richard Cordin, cornets; Simon Gluckman, saxophone; Horace Knowles, bass horn; George Davis, trombone; Joseph Katz, baritone; Whitney Morgan, Donald Bunce, clarinets; Benjamin Fine, piccolo; Lyceus Holland, clarinet, leader and director.

SENIORS PREPARE FOR GRADUATION

same day there will be vesper services in the Village Church with special music. The soloist will be Miss Julia Stacey Gould, of the Central Congregational Church in Providence.

The last day of the program is Monday, the day of Commencement. This event will take place at 11 o'clock with Dr. Louis K. Enspacher giving the address. Following this will be the Senior Luncheon for the graduates and their guests.

At Lippitt Hall on Monday evening the last social function of the year will be given in the form of the Commencement Ball. This year the dance will not be open to all, as in the past, but only to guests. The ball will be given by the Junior Class for the departing graduates.

Co-eds Enjoy Economics Lecture

Mrs. Harrington Gives Interesting Talk to Women Students at Home Economics Club Meeting

At its meeting last Monday evening the Home Economics Club was very fortunate to secure as its speaker of the evening, Mrs. Harrington of Providence. Mrs. Harrington is connected with the Home Economics League of that city and for many years has been interested and active along that line of work. The subject of her talk was the Home Economics trained woman and her opportunities. She stated that at present the largest field is along the lines of social service and family welfare work. The best qualifications for a girl along home economic lines are tact, good humor, an ability to teach, patience and in some degree a knowledge for mathematics. These are but starters, and the rest is composed of study and hard work. She made her lecture doubly interesting by the use of personal experiences to illustrate her points.

The interesting lecture was greatly enjoyed by the home economics students, members of the faculty and many of the villagers.

State Announces Football Schedules

Opening Game with Brown at Stadium; Connecticut to Come to Kingston; One Date Still Open

The 1927 football schedule was announced last week by the college committee. The schedule, the same as last season, will prove a tough assignment to the local pigskin chasers.

The opening game is with Brown University at Providence. All still remember that last year the star offense of "Little Rhody" proved almost too much for the "Iron Men" who were only too glad to depart from the scene with their 14-0 victory. Rhode Island loses little by graduation and no doubt she is pointing towards a successful season.

The first home game comes a week later, October 1, with Lowell Textile. Lowell last year earned a 6-0 win, and Coach Keaney is earnest to turn the tables. A vacancy still exists in the schedule, November 5 being open for some booking. The Alumni Home Coming Day is set for November 12, when Connecticut will invade Kingston in earnest hopes of trying to continue their successes against the locals.

Owen Conroy is captain of next year's Varsity eleven. As yet, there is no manager and whether one will be named from now until the end of the present school year, no one knows. The three candidates are, Gladding Johnson, William Mokray and Lewis Palmer.

The schedule follows:

Sept. 24—Brown at Providence.
Oct. 1—Lowell at Kingston.
Oct. 8—Maine at Oróno.
Oct. 15—C. C., N. Y. at Kingston.
Oct. 22—New Hamp. at Durham.
Oct. 29—Worcester Tech at Worcester.
Nov. 5—Open.
Nov. 12—Connecticut at Kingston.

Junior: Do you believe that a person can be in two places at the same time?

Senior: Certainly! Last week a Freshman was on the campus and home-sick all the time.

Beacon Holds Great Meeting

Editors Resort to Filibuster in Attempt to Win Constitution; Tau Kappa Has Little to Worry as Meeting Shows Debaters Are Plentiful

All time records were broken and debating marks shattered when the Beacon Board met last Monday evening in the Small Chem Lecture Room to discuss the qualities and sad to relate—the faults of the proposed constitution. After the contesting politicians had argued upon "technicalities," "waivers," and "rights," they found nil to be their goal, for their prolonged filibuster had entangled matters to such an extent that motion upon motion was insufficient to clear the minds of those who had come for the sole purpose of voting one way or another. In all, one thing was gained. The Beacon now claims the greatest and longest meeting ever to be held at Rhode Island State College—two hours and twenty-seven minutes to be exact.

It was kind of the Constitutional Committee to labor for days and weeks for the careful formulation and submission of their work—marred only by the presence of two major points. The present constitution, existing for many years, has proved inadequate in many ways. With the rejection of the proposed constitution, the Beacon falls back for its orders to the old one. What will be the next move of the "powers-that-be," no one knows, but it is a certainty that that little can be accomplished from now until the termination of the school year. Prof. Helen Peck learned many things during her presence at the meeting. The constitutional committees in the future will need advice and Miss Peck's help will have to be pressed into service.

There were two elections before the meeting adjourned. Miss Mildred Wine was elected secretary of the Beacon to fill the position left vacant by the resignation of Miss Ethel Hay. Andrew J. McCarville was named a member to the News Board.

Phi Delta Has Banquet at Inn

Alumni, Students and Faculty Present; Successful Year Surveyed; List of New Initiates

Phi Delta held its annual banquet last night at the Kingston Inn. An unusually large number of students, alumni and members of the faculty were present.

Ian M. Walker, president of Phi Delta, was largely responsible for the success of the affair. Following the customary menu of many appetizing courses, the various attendants found it to their satisfaction to express great favor upon the activities this past year. It will be remembered that besides presenting many small comedies the recent winter, Phi Delta played "Tilly of Bloomsbury" during the Junior Week festivities with success seldom received at any college. A fortnight ago, the same play was well received at Wakefield.

openly advocated its strong policy of opposition against gambling. The action of the Council was severely censured and also defended by groups in the student body. After a good deal of heated discussion the decision was given a referendum and approved.

Ohio Northern University is again enforcing the ban on dancing, prohibiting any student from dancing or any organization of persons from giving a dance under penalty of expulsion.

The seniors of Brown University are to have pipes and canes for senior week.

The students of McGill University have formed a society for the suppression of vice in and around the college. Among other things, they demand the abolishing of all college dances.

A girls' college in Germany has discontinued the study of biology as incompatible with maidenly modesty. The New Student is anxiously awaiting later developments of this clever ruse of biology teachers to stimulate interest in their subject.

A survey just completed at the University of California in Los Angeles shows that co-eds, nineteen years of age or younger, comprise a greater portion of the University's enrollment.

An even dozen girls fifteen years of age are carrying their college courses successfully in spite of their tender years. Ninety-three girls at the age of sixteen are pursuing higher education in the school, and, according to the dean of women, in many cases are distinguished in scholastic standing.

A student who fails to show signs of interest in an education by the end of his sophomore year should be discouraged from discontinuing his college education, is the opinion held by President Clarence C. Little.—University of Michigan.

Phi Delta Dramatic Society held its monthly meeting in the board room in Aggie Hall last Wednesday evening. The primary business of the evening was the second initiation of the year. The initiates composed the largest group ever admitted in to Phi Delta at one time. After the ceremonies had been completed, details of the annual banquet were discussed. The date was set for June 1st.

Those admitted into Phi Delta at this meeting were: Misses Catherine MacKay, Lillian Blanding, Helen Bowerman, Esther Crandall, Alice Tew, Bertha Friery, Mabel Peckham, Elizabeth Kendall, Mildred Wine, Doris Dyson and Messrs. Richard Cordin, Lawrence Dunn, Thomas Wright, Roland Gignac, Arthur Kevorkian, Donald Bunce, Maurice Conn, Henry Barney, Horace Magoun, Clarence Hoxie, Albert Higgins and Samuel Engdahl.

ENGINEERS PRESENT MOVIE PROGRAM

The Electrical Engineers presented last Monday evening a motion picture entitled "The Making of Steel," which was made possible through the courtesy of the Armco firm of Cleveland, Ohio. A very large attendance was present at the showing of this picture, which revealed every process in the manufacture of steel. This is the last entertainment of the club for the year and it ends a yearly program which has proved one of the best in the history of the organization.

Alumni Notes

Walter S. Rodman, '04, is professor of electrical engineering at the University of Virginia. He is vice president of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, chairman of the Southern Virginia section of the A. I. E. THE MASK

(G. H. A.)

Out of the fastness of years

A haunting memory—and tears!

Long, dark shadows of the Dead Day
Fall to cloud the Present's hope-lit way—

The Future's golden-gleaming strand!
I smile—that few may know—none understand

The reckoning that the years demand
That naught but pain—eternal pain—can pay!

—to live and give

The world the sham it asks, the while I pass—

Desiring death—condemned to live!

NORTHEASTERN FINALLY DEFEATS RHODE ISLAND

A break, nevertheless, almost turned the trick. Trumbull, first batter in the ninth, sent an easy fly to Pete Raney. The mite center fielder got beneath it, but then dropped it. Erickson shot a hit towards center but the peppy keystone sacker of the visitors, Goodwin, dashed forth to grab the bounder in time to force Trumbull at second. Asher forced Erickson and Townsend ended the pastime in fanning.

Two sparkling plays were executed during the course of the afternoon. Stevens in the eighth went into short left to pull down Pender's Texas Leaguer that was labeled a sure hit. Asher, earlier in the game, made his usual leaping catch that only lacked his customary tumble. Both fielders received a great hand and no doubt the plays were two of the best yet seen on the Kingston field.

Draghetti and Somerville both hurled masterful ball with the la having the slight edge. The local south paw worked with great success his slow curve that foiled the Bay Staters for the first half of the contest. Somerville, on the other hand, earned all the glory that was accorded him. He seldom was in trouble and he succeeded in retiring seven via the strike out order.

State closes a most successful season this Saturday afternoon with a game at Connecticut. Draghetti will hurl. The freshmen of the two colleges will afford the entertainment earlier in the afternoon with their return engagement. The Aggie "Frosh" won their contest here by an 8-3 count.

Frat Championship Debate Tomorrow

Beta Phi and Beta Nu to Debate on Foreign Policy of U. S.; Cup for Victors

The debate of the year will be held tomorrow evening in the large Chem Lecture Room when the representatives of Beta Nu Epsilon and Beta Phi will meet to decide the supremacy of the year. Both teams have survived the rounds in clashes with the debaters of the other fraternities and interest now is unusually high.

Beta Phi holds the cup since it won the honors last year. Both teams are evenly matched and no doubt a very large number will turn out to see the victor crowned. Those who will represent Beta Phi are Raymond Christopher, George Franklin and Edwin Olsson. The Beta Nu debaters are Benjamin Fine, Maurice Conn and David Fine. The subject for debate is: "Resolved, That the Foreign Policy of the Present Administration in regard to Nicaragua Should Be Upheld." Beta Phi will support the negative side of this question.

As yet the judges are unknown. To win permanent possession of the cup the fraternity must win three consecutive years. Beta Phi has one leg upon this trophy.

Library Notes

"Microbe Hunters" by Paul de Kruif and "Reality" by Burnett Streeter have been recently added to the library collection.

"Microbe Hunters" is a very interesting story of the adventures of the pioneers of bacteriology in their fight against man's worst enemy, disease. It has received much favorable criticism and is a book well worth reading.

"Reality" is the outline in the simplest and clearest language that Streeter can command of his way of regarding life and living it after 30 years of search.

Streeter, who is the author of many books concerning religion, went to college fully determined to follow his father in the profession of the law. Near the end of his second year he found himself to be an agnostic. After a year or so of reading to remedy this condition, he regained his intellectual confidence in religion sufficiently to decide to devote his life to its study and the passing on of the results so obtained to others. He has created in this book some of the big things that have come to him in his study of religion.
